

Friday, December 4, 2009

The Higher The Heel The Closer To God

LOS ANGELES (Wireless Flash - FlashNews) – If women want to have a truly religious experience, they should strap on a pair of sky-high heels.

That's the scoop from Hollywood TV reporter Adrianna Costa, who never works a red carpet without a pair of high heels on her feet.

Costa says heels are essential to her interviewing process.

Not only do they make her look long and lean next to Hollywood A-listers, but they make her job simply divine since, "The higher the heel, the closer to God."

She also religiously wears lips gloss and tans before big awards shows for a radiating glow, which tends to lure more stars her way.

Other than looking sharp, Costa says red carpet reporting is, "All about preparation – not Preparation H."

Since time with celebs is limited, she tries to fire curveball questions they haven't heard a million times already.

Though she's interviewed legends like Dennis Hopper, Costa admits she'd drop anyone to chat with horror mastermind Rob Zombie.